

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The invention provides an optical component whose siting, shape and size are well controlled and a method of manufacturing such an optical component. The optical component of the present invention includes a base member disposed on a substrate, and an optical member disposed on the top surface of the base member.